Custom Trips to Cuba!

A special offer for Center for Cuban Studies members and contributors

A CUSTOM TRIP is one whose itinerary is designed specifically for a group, as differentiated from CCS groups advertised on our website. These trips are especially valuable if you want to delve deeply into one or another aspect of Cuban society, such as the arts, politics, economics, the environment, agriculture, or something more narrowly defined within those broad categories.

Custom trips are best if the group is small FOUR TO EIGHT PERSONS, so that we can use a van rather than a large tour bus and our schedule can be flexible to satisfy individual wishes.

CUSTOM PROGRAMS may cover such subjects as:

- The Visual and Performing Arts
- Cuba Now: in-depth update of current issues
- Farm to Table: All about food
- Green Cuba
- Exploring Cuba's African Roots
- Social Programming: education, health care, eg
- Or specific subjects of interest to you

CUSTOM TRIPS are among the most important part of our work. If you and your family, your work center, your educational institution or other networking groups want to plan a custom tour of Cuba, you must plan at least 2-3 months in advance – good accommodations can be in short supply especially if you want to travel at a particular time of the year such as a holiday season or during school breaks.

Eight-day custom trips start at $4300 per person and include terrific accommodations, a van, driver-guide-translator and a Center for Cuban Studies representative, all breakfasts and several other included meals, expenses of all group programmed activities, all in-Cuba transportation, reading material and maps.

The ideal custom group is 6-8 persons; if you want to plan a trip for one of the regularly scheduled programs advertised on our website, the group can be 15-20 persons.

Now is the time to explore what is unique about Cuba

It won't last forever, but 50 years of a U.S. embargo has kept Cuba remarkably CUBAN. Traveling with the Center is the best way to see Cuba NOW.
